Voice Carrier Wins 2010 INTERNET TELEPHONY Excellence Award

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA – (Marketwire - April 6, 2011) – Voice Carrier, an innovator and leader in hosted VoIP PBX business communication systems, announced today that its Voice Carrier Office business telephone service has won the prestigious 2010 Excellence Award from INTERNET TELEPHONY, a TMC publication. Voice Carrier has been honored by TMC for excellence in Internet telephony for the fourth consecutive year.

"Voice Carrier Office is an extremely easy-to-use, affordable and full-featured hosted VoIP service that runs in the cloud and can be set up in minutes to reduce business phone bills by up to 70 percent," said Gary J. Johnson, President and CEO of Voice Carrier. "This award recognizes Voice Carrier's commitment to developing innovative products, redefining communications across new markets and our continued commitment to operational excellence and industry leadership."

About Voice Carrier Office

Voice Carrier Office, the ideal small/medium business (SMB) phone service, is a complete, cost-effective hosted VoIP solution with all the features you would expect from a significantly more costly business service. The Voice Carrier Office Hosted Virtual PBX is a full-featured PBX -- with no on-premise equipment. Users can customize their PBX extension through an easy-to-use Web interface. With powerful features such as follow-me, voicemail-to-email and a built-in conference bridge, users can manage their business communications from the office, home or even on the road using their cell phone.
